To download ALTools Traditional Chinese New Year Wallpapers in 2K,

3K, 4K and 5K resolutions, please visit us at What is Chinese Lunar Zodiac? Lunar Zodiac is a traditional Chinese calendar that was used to predict the time of year and days of the Chinese New Year celebration. The Chinese lunar calendar uses twelve years that start on the new moon on the spring equinox, along with twelve houses that represent the year. The first year of the year is the year of the Rat, and the last year is the year of the Ox. Each of the twelve years contain 60 Lunar Months. The first month of the Lunar Year is the first month of the calendar, and the last month is the twelfth month, with twelve days in that month. However, each month of the Lunar Year can vary in length. The months of a Lunar Year are also referred to as a solar month, lunar month, or lunar cycle. Each day of the month (from New moon to New moon) is called a lunation. The first day of a month is the New moon. The day which is fourteen days before the New moon is the Full moon. Chinese Zodiac Wallpapers The first twelve months of each Lunar Year are called the Rat, the Ox, the Tiger, the Rabbit, the Dragon, the Snake, the Horse, the Sheep, the Monkey, the Rooster, the Dog, and the

Pig. The remaining 28 months of the year are the remaining twelve house years of the year. Chinese New Year Calendar The Chinese New Year Calendar is a lunar calendar, which is similar to the western Gregorian Calendar. The year of the calendar is determined by the Chinese New Year celebration. Because the Chinese New Year is based on the appearance of the new moon, lunar calendar cycles are important to the Chinese New Year celebration. The Chinese
